

DECLARATION OF USE OF RESO STANDARDS

Certification on a RESO standard indicates that a given company or product has implemented a RESO standard and that content is available to permitted parties via that certified standard.

To maintain certification, RESO requires certified companies or products to provide content to permitted recipients via the standard for which the company or product is certified.

You understand that RESO reserves the right to revoke certification if RESO determines in its reasonable discretion that your company or product is not providing content to permitted recipients via a RESO standard for which the company or product is certified.
